

Executive Leadership Team Lay Representative - Texas Deanery

Craig T. Enoch returned to private practice after retiring from decades of service on Texas courts, where he decided complex civil matters as a Supreme Court Justice, Appellate Court Chief Justice, and Trial Court Presiding Judge. Drawing on extensive knowledge of governmental workings and experience in resolving disputes, Justice Enoch assists businesses in navigating complex laws and regulations. He co-founded his previous firm to provide effective advocacy for businesses at their intersection with government. He and his firm have brought that experience and dedication to Butler Snow. Justice Enoch's experience includes representing businesses before judicial, administrative, and legislative governmental bodies. His experience as a neutral arbitrator has involved decisions on matters ranging from disputes over utility construction and purchase contracts to employee benefit agreements and estate claims. Also, Justice Enoch is Board Certified in Civil Trial Law, maintains his membership in the College of the State Bar, is a long-time member of the Texas Supreme Court Historical Society, and an active bar educator, writing and speaking at numerous Texas State Bar educational programs throughout the years.

The Rev. Cindy Stansbury has served as Rector of St. James since 2017 and C4SO's Regional Dean of NorCal/PNW since June 2023.

Previously, she was Vicar of St. James starting in 2015. In addition to being a wife and mother, after spending many years in a variety of roles, from computer scientist at an AI company in Silicon Valley to headmaster of Live Oak Academy, Cindy heard the call to ministry and responded in obedience to that call. She received her master's degree in ministry from Nashotah House Theological Seminary in 2010 and was ordained as deacon and then priest in 2011. Cindy has lived most of her life in the Bay Area.
